Aw gee, Dennis, aw heck! I want to vote for the Nice Party, but I know they won't win, so I guess I'd better vote for the Partial Bastards...

...otherwise I'm just THROWING MY VOTE AWAY!!

WRONG, KEN THE VOTING DINGO!

VOTE!

In Australia, we have PREFERENTIAL VOTING. You can vote for the Partial Bastards, and still "vote" for a minor party!

Huh? WHUH?? I don't understand?

PREFERENTIAL VOTING EXPLAINED

To win a seat, a candidate must end up with an ABSOLUTE MAJORITY— that is, over 50% of the total votes. Let's say your electorate has 100 voters: 51 votes are needed to win!

1st count:	BEREMY: 39	PLUM: 35	WAKKUN: 20	GRUNTWARD: 6
------------	------------	----------	------------	--------------

First the "1" votes are counted. But look— no-one has 51 votes or more! So the loser, Gruntward, is eliminated. But the 6 people who voted "1" for Gruntward now have their "2" votes (second preferences) counted and transferred to those candidates.

2nd count:	BEREMY: 40	PLUM: 39	WAKKUN: 21	GRUNTWARD: 6
------------	------------	----------	------------	--------------

Still, no-one has an absolute majority of 51 or more! So Wakkun is eliminated, and his votes transferred according to the next preferences.

3rd count:	BEREMY: 46	PLUM: 54	WAKKUN: 21	GRUNTWARD: 6
------------	------------	----------	------------	--------------

A surprise victory for Plum!

So basically, if my first choice doesn't win, my second choice gets counted as my first choice.

But since my second choice won anyway, what was the point of putting a minor party first?

FIRSTLY. A minor party can win seats if enough people vote for them. Since you lose nothing by voting "1" for whomever you like most, why wouldn't you?

SECONDLY. this might happen: Looks like I won because of preferences from "Nice Party" voters... I should try to appeal to them by adopting some Nice policies.

THIRDLY. if a candidate gets at least 4% of first preferences ("1" votes), they'll receive election funding for each of those votes, which will help their next campaign!

Oh! I see now.

I'll look into this... "hugs".

NOTE NICE! I bought a sign!

Approx. $2.31 in 2010.

ANY MORE QUESTIONS, KEN THE VOTING DINGO?

Do I have to number ALL the boxes?

Do I have to follow a "How-to-vote" card?

YES NO
